Who We Are

Monk-E builds software that helps organizations apply AI to real operational workflows. The company focuses on measurable improvements in productivity, reliability, and customer experience.

Teams span technology, finance, people operations, marketing, and management operations.

How We Work

Monk-E favours small teams with clear ownership, evidence-based decisions, and close collaboration between technical and business functions.

Security and responsible handling of company and customer information are treated as engineering concerns rather than documentation-only requirements.

Products and Capabilities

Core capabilities include workflow automation, enterprise AI assistants, retrieval-augmented generation, analytics, integrations, and operational tooling.

Contact

General internal questions should be routed through the relevant department owner. External enquiries should use the approved corporate contact channel.
